Research on US Supreme Court confirmation voting has typically employed the recorded roll call vote as the dependent variable. However, some senators have opposed nominations confirmed by voice vote, and senator observations for non-voice votes are sometimes missing due to absences, pair agreements, or a vote as “present.” Inspection of the Congressional Record, Judiciary Committee hearings, and newspaper reports revealed a majority of the senator preferences missing from the recorded roll call vote between 1937 and 2010.¹

¹Please contact L.J Zigerell for questions about these sources or regarding any errors or possible additional observations.

1 Shortcomings of the Roll Call Measure

In 1971, Senator Barry Goldwater testified before the Senate Judiciary Committee to urge the confirmation of William Rehnquist as an associate justice on the US Supreme Court. Both Goldwater and Rehnquist were conservative Republicans, and Rehnquist had worked on Goldwater's 1964 presidential campaign, so it was no surprise that Goldwater voted in favor of his fellow Arizonan's confirmation, or that fifteen years later Goldwater made multiple statements on the Senate floor in support of Rehnquist's elevation to chief justice.² But Goldwater's final year in the Senate was punctuated with periods of illness, and he missed the 1986 Rehnquist chief justice confirmation vote.

Research on confirmation voting has traditionally employed the recorded roll call vote as the dependent variable.³ Legislator voting is, after all, the behavior of interest for these studies. But in a certain sense this behavior serves only as a proxy for legislator preferences. The Goldwater example illustrates that observed roll calls omit observations for which legislator attitudes about the underlying issue are unambiguous and available. Omission of these observations can introduce inefficiency into a model if legislator absences are random and bias if they are not.

Inspection of non-roll call sources revealed a substantial number of observations of senator preferences on US Supreme Court nominations, provided on the table on the following page. Subsequent pages document the sources for this variable.

2 Documentation of Sources

1. Hugo Black (confirmation vote date of 8/17/1937)

The recorded roll call vote was 63 in favor and 16 opposed (79 total, 17 missing).

- The Congressional Record for the roll call (p. 9102-9103) indicated that Hayden (AZ), Norris (NE), O’Mahoney (WY), and Russell (GA) would have voted in favor, and that Tydings (MD) and Vandenberg (MI) would have voted against. Austin announced a general pair of Gibson (VT) and Duffy (WI) with no indication of preference. The Record stated only that Bailey, Black, McCarran, McNary, Maloney, Smith, Walsh, and Wheeler were absent.
- Hugo Black served in the Senate at the time, so one of the missing observations is Black himself. It is coded in favor.
- On the roll call vote immediately previous to the confirmation roll call vote (p. 9102), Ellison Smith voted against a motion to recommit the Black nomination to the Judiciary Committee. The two roll calls were highly correlated: 13 of the 16 senators who voted against Black’s nomination also voted to recommit the nomination.
- McCarran voted to report the Black nomination favorably from the Judiciary Committee.

The New York Times. August 17, 1937. “Committee Upholds Black, 13 to 4, in Stormy Session; Borah With the Majority—Burke and King,—Democrats, Join 2 Republicans—Senate Leaders Seek Final Vote Today.”

- A search of LexisNexis Congressional Publications⁴ revealed no minutes of a Judiciary subcommittee or committee hearing.
- A search of the Congressional Record index for remarks in the Senate on the nomination revealed no preferences of uncoded senators.
- The unofficial sense of the Senate, therefore, was 68 in favor and 18 opposed, with 9 uncoded (Bailey, Duffy, Gibson, McCarran, McNary, Maloney, Smith, Walsh, and Wheeler), and one vacancy in the Arkansas delegation (Senator Robinson served until July 14, 1937, and Senator Miller began service on November 15, 1937). Neither McCarran nor Smith were coded but preferences for each may be presumed from the aforementioned information.

2. Stanley Reed (1/25/1938)

The Congressional Record indicated that the nomination was approved by voice vote, with no information on senator preferences (p. 1031).

⁴Searches were conducted with the keywords “nomination” and the nominee’s first and last name separated by the “w/3” function (e.g., Hugo w/3 Black).

- A search of LexisNexis Congressional Publications revealed only the unpublished minutes of a Judiciary subcommittee hearing (HRG-1937-SJS-0019, Jan. 20, 1937, 28 pp.) with Borah, King, Logan, McGill, Norris, and Van Nuys present.⁵ Logan provided testimony in favor of the nomination. The nomination was reported favorably from committee without an indication of a vote tally (Rutkus and Bearden 2006).

3. Felix Frankfurter (1/17/1939)

The Congressional Record indicated that the nomination was approved by voice vote (p. 409).

- A search of LexisNexis Congressional Publications revealed only a Judiciary subcommittee hearing (HRG-1939-SJS-0001, Jan. 7, 10-12, 1939, 132 pp.), but no senators provided testimony.
- The nomination was reported favorably from committee without an indication of a vote tally (Rutkus and Bearden 2006).⁶

4. William Douglas (4/4/1939)

The Record indicated only that Bailey (NC), Donahey (OH), Glass (VA), Holt (WV), Johnson (CA), Van Nuys (IN), Walsh (MA), and Wheeler (MT) were absent. The Record did not mention Bridges, Capper, Tobey, Vandenberg, or White.
- A search of LexisNexis Congressional Publications revealed only the unpublished minutes of a Judiciary subcommittee hearing (HRG-1939-SJS-0013, Mar. 24, 1939, 4 pp.), but no senators provided testimony. The nomination was reported favorably from committee without an indication of a vote tally (Rutkus and Bearden 2006).
- A search of the Congressional Record index for remarks in the Senate on the nomination revealed no preferences of uncoded senators.
- The unofficial sense of the Senate, therefore, was 77 in favor and 6 opposed, with 13 uncoded (Bailey, Bridges, Capper, Donahey, Glass, Holt, Johnson, Tobey, Vandenberg, Van Nuys, Walsh, Wheeler, and White).

The Murphy associate justice nomination was reported favorably from committee without an indication of a vote tally (Rutkus and Bearden 2006).

6. James Byrnes (6/12/1941)

The Congressional Record indicated that the nomination was approved by voice vote (p. 5062).

Some senators challenged Tydings, but the only clear indications of vote preference in favor of the nomination came from Burton (p. 5833) and Mead (p. 5844). O'Mahoney noted that no one on the subcommittee or committee dissented from the favorable recommendation (p. 5837, 5841).
- A search of LexisNexis Congressional Publications revealed only a Judiciary subcommittee hearing (HRG-1941-SJS-0004, June 21, 23, 27, 30, 1941, 74 pp.). At the hearing, Tydings testified against the nomination. George Norris (NE) spoke, but was unclear about favoring or opposing. - The unofficial sense of the Senate, therefore, was 59 in favor and 18 opposed, with 19 uncoded (Brewster, Bricker, Bridges, Butler, Chavez, Frear, Gillette, Knowland, Malone, Martin, McCarran, McClellan, Reed, Smith, Tobey, Tydings, Vandenberg, Withers, and Young).

14. Earl Warren (3/1/1954, Chief Justice)

The Congressional Record indicated that the nomination was approved by voice vote (p. 2381).

- In the Record, Knowland (p. 2047, 2380) and Kuchel (p. 2380) spoke in favor of the nomination. Long stated that he expected to vote for the nomination (p. 2046). Johnson of Colorado stated that he was a supporter of the Chief Justice (p. 2046). Welker (apparently referring to himself as “the Senator from Idaho”) stated that he enjoys a “warm and close friendship with the nominee” (p. 2046). Morse spoke in favor (p. 2046). Hendrickson called the nominee “distinguished” (p. 2046).
- A search of LexisNexis Congressional Publications revealed four Judiciary Committee hearing documents. The first document (HRG-1954-SJS-0094, Feb. 2, 1954, 76 pp.) contained letters from the chair to the committee members regarding the Warren nomination indicating that a non-response would be interpreted as no objection. Documents were included from Knowland (p. 67) and Kuchel (p. 68), both of whom expressed approval for the Warren nomination. In the second document (HRG-1954-SJS-0092, Feb. 19, 1954, 40 pp.), Knowland provided testimony in support (p. 67), Smithey read a letter from Hendrickson in favor (p. 68-71), Welker thanked Hendrickson for the letter (p. 72), and Smithey read a letter from O’Conor in favor (p. 72-73). The third document (HRG-1954-SJS-0091, Feb. 20, 1954, 28 pp.) contained no testimony from any senators. The fourth document (HRG-1954-SJS-0089, Feb. 24, 1954, 132 pp.) contained a roll call to report the nomination favorably (p. 143-154): Butler, Dirksen, Hendrickson (twice), Kefauver, McCarran, McClellan, Watkins, Welker, and Wiley voted in favor. Eastland and Johnston voted in opposition. Langer voted in favor but “with a lot of reservations”, which Kilgore concurred with, but then Kilgore changed his vote to opposition. Kilgore noted that his opposition was based on the “press pressure methods of trying to get a decision out of this committee” (p. 147) and that he “still think[s] Earl Warren is an excellent Chief Justice” (p. 147) and that he would vote in favor of the confirmation of Earl Warren if that were the only issue (p. 153). The document noted that Jenner favored the nomination but did not speak (he may be the second Hendrickson listed). The official Judiciary Committee report was favorable, 12-3.

- The idiosyncratic nature of opposition to the Warren nomination in the Judiciary Committee vote cautioned against imputing preferences to senators based on their statements or votes during Judiciary Committee hearings.

15. John Harlan II (3/16/1955)

The recorded roll call vote was 71 in favor and 11 opposed (82 total, 14 missing).

- The Congressional Record for the roll call (p. 3011, 3036) indicated that Scott withheld his opposition vote in a pair with Morse (OR), who would have voted in favor. The Record also indicated that Kennedy (MA), McNamara (MI), Saltonstall (MA), Smith (NJ), and Symington (MO) would have voted in favor. The Record indicated only that Bridges (NH), Carlson (KS), George (GA), Murray (MT), Schoeppel (KS), Sparkman (AL), and Young (ND) were absent.
- A search of the Congressional Record index for remarks in the Senate on the nomination revealed no preferences of uncoded senators (p. 2829ff, 3012ff, 3022ff, 3034ff).
- A search of LexisNexis Congressional Publications revealed four Judiciary Committee hearing documents. The first document (HRG-1954-SJS-0182, Feb. 4, 1954, 4 pp.) indicated only that blue slip senators Lehman and Irving had no objection. The second document (HRG-1954-SJS-0140, Nov. 19, 1954, 55 pp.) contained no information about uncoded senator preferences. The third document returned was a copy of the second document. The fourth document (HRG-1955-SJS-0001, Feb. 24, 25, 1955, 232 pp.)⁷ and fifth document (HRG-1955-SJS-0127, Feb. 23, 1955, 9 pp.) contained no information about uncoded senator preferences. None of the uncoded senators were on the Judiciary Committee.
- The unofficial sense of the Senate, therefore, was 77 in favor and 12 opposed, with 7 uncoded (Bridges, Carlson, George, Murray, Schoeppel, Sparkman, and Young).

16. William Brennan (3/19/1957)

The Congressional Record indicated that the nomination was approved by voice vote (p. 3946).

- In the Record, Smith (NJ) and Case (NJ) spoke in favor (p. 3936). Joseph McCarthy spoke against the nomination (p. 3937). Dirksen spoke in defense of Brennan (p. 3945-3946). Morse noted that every senator on his side of the aisle was prepared to vote for Brennan's nomination (p. 3946). Knowland spoke in favor (p. 3633).
- A search of LexisNexis Congressional Publications revealed only a Judiciary Committee hearing (HRG-1957-SJS-0039, Feb. 26, 27, 1957, 44 pp.). Smith (NJ) and Case (NJ) spoke in favor, and McCarthy (WI) spoke against. The nomination was reported favorably from committee without an indication of a vote tally (Rutkus and Bearden 2006).

- McCarthy was “the only Senator to oppose President Eisenhower’s nomination of William J. Brennan of New Jersey to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court” (p. 206), according to The New York Times May 5 article, “THE NATION: Joseph R. McCarthy ‘Coddling Communists’ Senators of Distinction ‘Gigantic Intellect’ On Mayflower II Beck at Bay.”

17. Charles Whittaker (3/19/1957)

The Congressional Record indicated that the nomination was approved by voice vote (p. 3946).

- In the Record, Hennings spoke in favor of the nomination (p. 3929, 3946), and noted that Whittaker’s nomination was approved unanimously by the ten present members of the Judiciary Committee out of the 15 total members (p. 3946). Carlson and Symington spoke in favor (p. 2909). Stennis spoke in favor (p. 3108).
- A search of LexisNexis Congressional Publications revealed only a Judiciary Committee hearing (HRG-1957-SJS-0038, Mar. 18, 1957, 38 pp.). Hennings and Symington spoke in favor. The nomination was reported favorably from committee without an indication of a vote tally (Rutkus and Bearden 2006).

18. Potter Stewart (5/5/1959)

The recorded roll call vote was 70 in favor and 17 opposed (87 total, 13 missing).

- The Congressional Record for the roll call (p. 7472) indicated that Allott (CO), Capehart (IN), Clark (PA), Curtis (NE), Javits (NY), Moss (UT), Murray (MT), Randolph (WV), Symington (MO), and Wiley (WI) would vote in favor, but only that Hickenlooper (IA) was absent.
- A search of the Congressional Record index for remarks, statements, or letters from Hickenlooper on the nomination revealed no entries.
- A search of LexisNexis Congressional Publications revealed two Judiciary Committee hearing documents. Hickenlooper did not testify or appear at the first (HRG-1959-SJS-0087, Apr. 9, 1959, 73 pp.) or the second (HRG-1959-SJS-0088, Apr. 14, 1959, 81 pp.). The Judiciary Committee favorably reported the nomination with three dissents, but Hickenlooper did not serve on the committee.
- The unofficial sense of the Senate, therefore, was 80 in favor and 17 opposed, with 1 uncoded (Hickenlooper).

19. Byron White (4/11/1962)

The Congressional Record indicated that the nomination was approved by voice vote (p. 6332).

Mr. Simpson: I announce that the Senator from Utah [Mr. Garn] and the Senator from Arizona [Mr. Goldwater] are necessarily absent. I further announce that, if present and voting, the Senator from Utah [Mr. Garn] would each vote “yea.”

Goldwater was not coded as supporting Scalia on the basis of this Record entry (with an ambiguous “each”) because, in the Record entry for the Rehnquist nomination on the same day, Simpson only indicated the preference of absent Garn.

- A search of the Congressional Record index for remarks, statements, or letters from Goldwater on the nomination revealed no entries. A Lexis-Nexis search of the Daily Congressional Record & Rules restricted by speaker on the floor to Goldwater and to the search term “Scalia” revealed two documents (132 Cong Rec S 12629, 132 Cong Rec S 12378), neither of which provided information about Goldwater’s preference for the Scalia nomination.

- However, Simon did provide testimony to the Judiciary Committee that was favorable to Anthony Kennedy, although it stopped short of an endorsement:

I cannot agree with all of Judge Kennedy’s opinions. In a few cases – such as his expansive discussion of substantive due process in the case of Beller v. Middendorf – he has seemed to stray somewhat from the principle of judicial restraint which he usually follows. But even in that case he reached the correct result, as later confirmed by the Supreme Court’s decision in Bowers v. Hardwick. On the whole, his judicial record is exemplary and sound. Any attempt to suggest that Judge Kennedy is not within the so-called “mainstream” is implausible. Even those of his opinions which may be criticized by hostile witnesses – such as his comparable worth opinion and his decision upholding the Navy’s right to discharge homosexuals in the Beller case – are consistent with results reached by numerous other federal appeals courts. The test for me, though, is not whether he is within some selective notion of the “mainstream”; it is whether he is faithful to the constitution and the limits of the judicial role. From what I’ve seen and read so far, Judge Kennedy should pass that more important test. I hope his testimony and his answers to my colleagues’ questions will reenforce that belief.

The quote was considered favorable enough to warrant coding Simon in favor of the nomination.
